The Barony of Moycullen was created in 1685 by the Composition of Connacht into counties by Queen Elizabeth 1. The region was ruled over by the Gaelic clann- The O' Flaherty's from the mid thirteenth century to the seventeenth century.

My Granny and Grandad are neighbours to 'Mount St. Joseph's Hospital.' Which was established during the famine, it had the capacity of 50 patients, two nurses and one ward madian.

Past my house and up near Loughwell Pet farm there are many windmills and forests. Also when you go from Moycullen to Galway, you can see Lough Corrib.
Well done Fiona.
